Dear Brandi,

Thank you for your generous support of Camp fyrefly Saskatchewan, 2014. With your help, 47 youth and young adults were offered leadership training and skills development to help them build resiliency so that they can return to their home communities and help these sometimes contested and closeted spaces to become more open, tolerant and respectful places to live.

Camp involved more than 40 volunteers who contributed 800 volunteer hours to ensure that participants were provided with the skills required to cope with the challenges that come with being a sexual minority or gender variant individual. It included an Artist-in-residence, an Elder-in-Residence, and a Playwright-in-residence who interviewed participants about experiences in their lives and what drew them to Camp fyrefly. She will be writing a play, which she hopes to present around the Province within the next couple of years, to highlight those experiences and promote tolerance and acceptance of GLBTIQ individuals, particularly in schools. There were 26 workshop presenters who delivered 19 workshops.

Camp fyrefly Saskatchewan continues to grow and we are already planning for 2015. We look forward to your continued support.

Please check out our website at www.usask.ca/education/fyrefly to see photos of Camp fyrefly Sask 2014.

Yours sincerely,

James McNinch, Director

Dear Chief ~~Hagen~~ :

Thank you for providing the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) with a copy of the Regina Police Service 2013 Annual Report.

You and the members of the Regina Police Service can be very proud of your success, again this year, in reducing the number of criminal code and property crime offences, especially given the city's population increase. Also of particular note is the Regina Police Service's highly successful public safety plan, which resulted in ensuring the safety and security of the citizens of and the visitors to Regina during the 2013 Grey Cup game and celebration. Congratulations on a very successful year.

Thank you again for providing the OPP with a copy of the Regina Police Service 2013 Annual Report.

Yours truly,

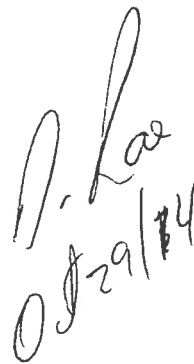

J.V.N. (Vince) Hawkes, O.O.M.

Chief,

Ms. Eileen Mattern called to advise when she was at the airport this morning dropping off her daughter, and when she was ready to leave, her car would not start. A security guard from the airport tried to help her, but did not have any luck in getting her car started. He indicated to her that there are two police officers here that may be able to help.

✓ The two officers, S/Sgt. Paul Tate and Sgt. Colin Erichsen assisted and were able to get Ms. Mattern's vehicle started. She asked if the officers were sure she would be able to make it home, which they reassured her.

When she pulled into her driveway and got out of her vehicle, the two officers had followed her home to make sure that she made it.

She was so shocked and so thankful that they followed her just to make sure that she made it home that she had to call in to let us know what they had done for her.

S/Sgt. Tate

Photo from yesterday's Santa Claus Parade in Regina, via one of our officers. This little guy was quite surprised and excited to see an officer (Chief of Police, Troy Hagen!) and candy canes! Thanks to all who came out and braved the cold!

Hello, I want to apologize all the wonderful police officers that had to deal with me in the past. I wanna also congratulate all the officers for all the drug busts that they accomplished because I hate all drugs including alcohol. I want to help protect this City, but I will never able become an officer. If there is anything I can volunteer my time, so that my reputation with the police is a good one, please let me know. Just to let you I quit drinking, and this new year is going to be amazing, because everything bad that happened to me was because of drinking. If I ever see a crime in progress, I will report it to crime stoppers every time. I am going to be that one citizen that you won't have to worry about anymore. Have a wonderful night and to all the officers stay safe out there 😊

I am a retired CF member and I was attending the service today at the Cenotaph, as I walked from my car to the park I notice an RPS member in his vehicle and thought on a day such as this we honour our Fallen and show respect to those still serving or have served. I went over to him shook his hand and thanked him for his service as well. I thought those men and women in police services and of course EMS should be honoured. Thank you for your service and be safe.

Samantha Anne Nicholson I'm so happy and relieved you guys did a huge bust like this one. I live on 600 block garnet and I really don't want anyone (especially my children) getting hurt because of this drug infested area. I will sleep better at night now knowing so many drugs and drug dealers were taken off of my streets tonight. Thank you RPS & everyone who helped bring these people to justice. Keep up the good work. You guys are amazing! 😊 drugs are so terrible. I don't know why people would ever choose that life. Jeez! Times have really changed...

Please share this with all your officers.

As we lay Nathan Cirillo to rest, I think this needs to be said: Not only do our soldiers protect our country, our police officers lay their life on the line daily as well. Thank you Regina Police Officers for doing what you do and doing it bravely. You guys do a wonderful job even though it is thankless and tough. Every time I pass an officer in traffic I say a prayer of protection for him/her. God protect and be with you all...and again...thank you...THANK YOU for all that you do!

I was in an accident last week, I am not sure what officer responded. But I just wanted to say that not only was I treated with the utmost respect but he was also 100% compassionate and kind. Not once did he make me feel bad at all. So thank you to Regina Police Services. The service that I got put me much more at ease with the situation I was in! I wish that I knew the officer's name so that I could thank him myself.

Oct. 10, 2014 - In response to a discussion about recruiting and hiring:

Jay Bird It's good to see the initiatives and you have a higher % of Indigenous workers than many Crown Corps - I think that's a great thing!

I hope there is North Central strategy as well? As you might know, people do not feel safe down there and want to have a plan to reduce (eliminate) crime in that neighborhood. What is the plan for North Central to combat such high crime statistics?

On a side note, I would suggest a movement away from the wording 'Aboriginal' towards the wording 'Indigenous' as this is the current trend (from elders) in Indigenous communities.

Regina Police Service Jay Bird Thanks for the great discussion and the compliment on our hiring initiatives! That is definitely a priority for us.

You're right; we are aware of the crime and fear of crime in the North Central neighbourhood. It's our hope as well that we can reduce victimization. Over the years there have been many efforts but we all know crime is a manifestation of complex underlying issues. Most recently the inspector in charge of the central district, which includes North Central, has developed a Crime Reduction Strategy. One of the most exciting aspects of this plan is the focus on prevention and intervention so that less of the effort will be needed on the enforcement end. In other words, the plan is to continue to work with the community, human service agencies, and government, to address issues that eventually are expressed as crime. The focus is advocacy, support, and collaborative solutions at all levels to shift and balance reactive policing with more proactive approaches.

Thanks for the note on wording. Language evolves and we need to keep up! It isn't our intention to alienate anyone by using outdated language.

Regina Police Service Jay Bird couldn't pass up the opportunity to say, we are always looking for "a few good men and women", so if you know of anyone who is interested in a career in policing, point them in our direction!

Andrew Hodgkinson Social media has allowed for the Regina Police Service to provide the public with more information on what is going on in this city. That does NOT mean this city is getting any worse, but that people are more aware of what is actually happening in our city on a daily basis. Thank you RPS for serving this community well.

Laurica Stepan Wouldn't it be nice if we could sentence these people to a life of valuable work and taking responsibility for themselves? I humbly respect our police force for the work they do to help out all citizens. Once the perpetrators go into the court system, our police have little to no say. Thank you for all you do. ❤️

Krystal Griswold I always get a kick out of people blaming the RPS for the stuff that is happening in our city. However, I don't see a single reasonable suggestion on what to do to improve upon what the officers in our communities are doing. Shame on you officers for not being able to magically predict when some stupid criminal is going to wreak havoc next. Really people? Perhaps it's not that things are getting worse, but that we are just more informed now than we used to be, thanks to outlets like Facebook.

So may I just say thank you RPS, for everything you do!

Patty Kennedy I think that the police do an excellent job. I think the 911 operators are amazing, calm and dedicated. I think people should be more thankful, more informed and more involved in being a part of the solution. I just witnessed several police officers helping an elderly woman who experienced some type of issue in the front of the Cornwall at lunch time. I'm assuming they were awaiting an ambulance with her. They were reassuring her and taking care that she was sheltered from the eyes and feet of the passers by. Good work. Excellent men and woman. We are fortunate to have you serving and protecting.

Alannah Diane Police get blamed, where as a society, culture and citizen of this city/province, we NEED to play our part of making a place where all citizens feel comfortable and help individuals create better choices in their lives. Society is more to blame then the police when it comes to these incidents. Make sure you're doing your part and help the RPS do theirs.

Gaylene McArthur You know what, majority of society know you do your best, you know you do your best, no one can stop bad things from happening and it's human nature to want to blame and point fingers but that isn't productive. I understand that you can't make everyone happy all the time and youre not a bunch of supermen or flash Gordons..stop defending yourself against blatant ignorant statements and keep up what you're doing..atleast you're out there working for the betterment of the communities in which you work...unlike the Facebook/internet police..dont see them out there doing what you do yet they are ready to plant seeds of doubt and complain about your actions....this is just my two cents, personally I'm glad someone's out there looking out for the rest of us schmucks who just go about our day to day business doing what we gotta do to get by.

Caillin Rodonets

12 September 06:38

Just heard on the radio that someone got a 200$ ticket for doing 61 in a school zone.

I received a ticket outside of virden mb where the speed limit decreases from 110 to 100, before I took my cruise control off (sneaky guy was right on the other side of the 100 sign) and got a 480$ speeding ticket for going 118. Maybe school zone speeding tickets should be set by Manitoba standards (can't believe I said that) but it might stop people from speeding in school zones and putting the kidlettes at risk! Stay safe out there, RPS, you're doing a great job and I'm more than proud of my city's police service!

Sure, Sears National Kids Cancer ride happens every September, we raise funds by having volunteers of cyclist's bike across Canada. they started in Vancouver and yesterday arrived in Regina at 5pm, rush hour! The city police along with volunteer Harley Riders escorted them from highway 1 and lewvan to the Sears Home Store where people gathered to cheer them on and welcome them to Regina and the store for a rest stop. It was amazing and people were just in awe as they saw the City Police in front, brought tears to our eye and the riders..the riders were in amazement and said it was the best welcome they have had. We had children there who are in remission's and parents of children with cancer and are so very thankful for the cause and raising funds. All money raised in SK via the ride stays here and this year we are giving all monies raised to the children's hospital foundation of SK, Oncology and research department for kids cancer! Without the help of the RPS it would have taken hours to come, but there they were taking the best route and stopping traffic to get them here.

As everyone knows, critics are in greater number than supporters. I just wanted to say what a great job everyone at RPS does. While driving this afternoon I seen four (maybe five) officers taking a young man into custody. I only had a passing look but it was obvious that the situation was calm and respectful. I am not certain if it was a traffic stop initially. I do know that those calls put officers at great risk. The obvious support for their team members is something that RPS should take pride in. The officers are often "the face" of RPS. What many members of the public don't realize is how many civilian members there are that work with the officers to make the city safe. Sorry if I seem to have rambled but just thought I would give credit where it is due and want your team to know that people do notice your hard work. Thank you.

Leslie Moldenhauer I definitely appreciate all the hard work and dedication the RPS provides to our city. Hi Elizabeth,

Yes I am getting use to having a few minutes to connect with people but I always still feel like I wish I had more time to show how much people's support means to me. It was great how much media coverage I have received since coming here. Thank you so much for helping with that. I had a gentleman come up to me in tim hortons today asking if I was the girl cycling across Canada. He recognized me from tv!

I will be sure to send the money to the charities that I am raising funds for. I am grateful for everyones support! Thank you for your money too! Gas money always comes in handy :)

Thank you for everything you said. I become emotional thinking of how much support and wonderful messages I am getting from people. We really do live in a society where there is so much support out there and I believe we are on the right path to reducing the stigma and further supporting each other. I feel so much hope from messages like these. Thank you!

All the best,

Danielle
