Troy,

Please pass along our message of sincere thanks and gratitude to your Team Members who participated in today's inaugural Cornwall Centre Cop Shop.

I am so happy that I was there at the end of the day to see the reactions of both children and RPS members and to feel the relationships that were formed through this program. The transformation I witnessed from feelings of apprehension and cautious communication at the beginning of the day transformed somehow into a spirit of fun, friendship and appreciation at the end of the day! It definitely had a very positive impact on the children, but also touched our hearts to see relationships form over such a short period of time. So neat so cool!

Kudos to your Team!

Definitely warmed the spirit of the festive season!!!!

Hello,

Just to echo Mel's comments I was very proud of each one of you and I am sure you agree this was a wonderful experience. I have no doubt we have positively impacted the lives of the children involved and once again the Service was placed in a positive light.

Thank-you!

Chief,

Re: Sgt. Shawn George

✓ Received a call from Giuliana DeCosmo who wants you to know what an amazing human being Sergeant Shawn George is. He is a guardian angel and has restored her faith in the police.

There was a break-in at her residence last year and one of the items taken was a ring. She indicated she was recently advised her ring was located at a Pawn Shop, and the next day, Sgt. George attended to her residence returning the ring.

Staff Sergeant Tate:

The Regina Qu'Appelle Health Region in collaboration with Saskatchewan Polytechnical offers the Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner course to experienced registered nurses, particularly Regina examiners. An excellent video clip of Corporal Shannon Gordon is imbedded in the web portion of the course which effectively speaks to the laws and the general role of peace officers as investigators. Although Shannon's portion has been valuable for our education, I have realized over time that our nurses have little understanding of the fine points of investigation and the ethical decisions with which officers are confronted in working with victims.

I invited Constable Grant Campbell to speak to this class on December 11th about some of the aspects of investigation and the ethical concerns which are largely invisible to nurses who care for victims of sexual violence. My hope was that the nurses would have a greater appreciation for the thought that goes into a police investigation.

I was not disappointed. Grant spoke in an engaging manner that held our attention. More important than his style, his content allowed us to have a greater sense of the compassion and thoughtfulness that officers bring to interactions with victims. He also left us with an understanding of the difficulty and with what expertise officers must pursue their investigations of reported sexual assault.

Thank you for permitting Grant to speak to our nurses. The Regina Qu'Appelle Health Region Forensic Nursing Program is very grateful for our collegial relationship with Regina Police Service.

Dear Sir,

On December 23, 2015 while sitting in the Regina General Hospital, I observed Cst Josh Ethier and Cst Steve Norton bring a handcuffed man to registration.

Despite his what I would guess was an untrusting state, and belligerence over being handcuffed the constables showed incredible respect and patience for the man.

Listening to Constable Josh explain several times in a kind & gentle manner that this person's prior behavior made it impossible for him to remove his handcuffs was a special Christmas moment for me. Cst Ethier attempted to position the handcuffs more comfortably and continued to talk to the man in a kind and gentle ~~moment~~ ^{voice}.

This incident reminded me that there are still good people in our world. Please convey to these two gentlemen that they not only impressed me but were an Exemplary representation of our Police force.

Blessings to you & your team this New Year!

Dear Chief Hagen,

Re: File no. _____

I am writing on behalf of our office to express our appreciation for the efforts of your officer in resolving the theft of our laptop. Unfortunately, I did not get his card, or I would have offered our thanks personally.

When I submitted the report, I frankly did not expect it to be handled with much priority, given the many serious demands on the Regina Police. Your officer handled our file promptly and very professionally, and his efforts succeeded in recovering our property.

Thanks for all the excellent work of the service, and all the best in the New Year.

Sincerely,

Attention Chief of Police Troy Hagen

Mr. Logan & Salamon,
Thank you for going the extra-mile on this file.
Very Well Done!
T. Hagen

On August 5th, 2015 my ex husband (Dave) and three kids (Connor, 6, Owen, 3 and Avrie 7months) were in a vehicle collision on the ring road. I believe they called me before 911 as I got there before the first responders and got to witness how each of them dealt with the situation. First on the scene were Officers Tim Logan and Keith Salamon. Upon learning that my 6 year old, Connor had sustained an injury (very small, just a black eye), they made him their first and top priority. I am sorry, I only learned their names the next day and am not sure which officer was which, but the first one hung out with Connor until EMS and the Fire Department showed up. He only had a black eye, but was pretty shaken up. The officer told Connor how tough he looked, how brave he was, showed Con his own scar and was overall just really empathetic and caring towards him.

Once EMS and The Fire department were on the scene, the officers went on to handle their business and I have to say both EMS and the Firemen were outstanding as well. Everyone went above and beyond to make sure that my children were not only physically okay but emotionally as well. Every single person on site played a part to make sure my children felt safe and important, like their wellbeing mattered more than anything. What no one realized was this was one of their first visits with their dad since our separation and they were on their way to Chuck-E-Cheese, as suggested by Connor - who felt that the accident was his fault (if he hadn't picked that destination, they wouldn't have been on that road). He is so sensitive and dealing with so much right now, that extra kindness went a long way. (I wish I knew all of the first responders names and if you have access to that information, I would love if you could forward this to the appropriate people ☺ !)

At one point, one of the firemen saw Owen looking left out in the back seat from his big brother stealing the show and climbed right into my minivan and carried on a conversation with him. To pick up on that and then to make the effort to make it right, was touching. For over an hour, my children got to look at different uniforms, tell their stories, laugh and hang out with real life super heroes! As a mom, this was amazing to watch. I have tried to talk to my kids about police and firefighters being our friends and tell them that that we can ask them for help if we are scared, lost or hurt but adults are scary to kids. Serious looking adults in a uniform, even more so. Their first encounter couldn't have gone any better. I feel more confident now, that my children would seek out the appropriate "friend" should they ever need to. Before leaving, the second officer got some tattoos for the boys, which made their night! For a solid week, they showed those things off to everyone!

I know these men and women see horrific things and were probably very relieved to tend to an accident on the ring road with the worst injury being a black eye. I can't imagine how difficult this job has to be. I feel like first responders are under appreciated - but especially the police -and even more so these days with all the negative attention they get in the media. To have a job where you deal daily with the things no one else can handle or even imagine and to still be so warm and caring takes such a special soul! I can't say thank you enough! Real. Life. Superheroes! Thank you, thank you, THANK YOU for all you do and deal with and for still being so amazing! I know it's not much, but next time they are having a rough night, I would like them to have a coffee on me and know that their job is so important and they are appreciated!

Sincerely,
Haley Fulcher-Stevenson

I am so thrilled to see the great coverage Regina Police Service and Cornwall Centre are receiving for this incredible event. Modern policing is about so much more than just catching bad guys; our officers are agents of change in the community, and this is one more example of how building relationships with our citizens is a huge priority.

Photos from the 1st Annual CopShop, held at and sponsored by the Cornwall Centre!

Each kid was picked up at school by a limo bus, and then went to the Cornwall Centre to have lunch with their shopping buddy. They each got a $200 Cornwall Centre Gift Card to spend at the mall, plus, thanks to Sears, a BRAND NEW WINTER JACKET! The kids are all paired up with RPS officers, as their personal shoppers and had a fun afternoon! Once done they got a few presents gift-wrapped and grabbed cookies and juice. They were delivered home on the limo bus when the day was done.

Thanks Cornwall Centre for organizing this amazing day for the kids! We shopped 'til we dropped and there were smiles in abundance!

December 18, 2015 – Designated Drivers Christmas Poem

Regina Police Service

Published by Kim Schmidt [?] · December 18, 2015 at 5:02pm · Regina · 🌟

T'was one week until Christmas,
And all through Regina,
The Christmas parties were pumping,
At bars, centres and houses!

The Designated Drivers,
Standing ready by phone,
In hopes that it would ring,
To safely take folks home...

If you're celebrating some Christmas Cheer tonight, call upon some great designated driving services to take you AND your vehicle home safe. #yqr #yqrtraffic #arrivealive

Operation Red Nose - Regina 306-949-2400

First Choice Designated Driver Service 306-535-9394

Zero 8 Designated Drivers 306-581-3008

Or call a Taxi or a designated driver/your mom. No offence, but we don't want to drive you, neither does EMS. Please, don't drink and drive. Have a safe weekend!

Theft of Auto is still an ongoing challenge, even during the holiday season. Prevention is a part of the solution. (BTW thanks to everyone who already does this!)

Lock your vehicle, don't leave your keys in the vehicle, and keep valuables out of plain sight. Doing these things may help to deter a thief from stealing your vehicle and your stuff. #lockitorloseit

3:28AM

Good morning,

I would just like to give a huge THANK YOU to the officer at the front desk Sunday morning. He gave me such reassurance and sound advice on my situation I am going through. He went beyond what he had to for his job and was open and honest. I believe he had my best interests at heart and not once did he make me feel that he was too busy to care. He reassured me everything is going to be ok. I have total respect for this officer and found a new found trust for the Regina Police. Can you please thank him for me for going beyond his call of duty that day?! Thank you

I am unsure of his name even. He was helping the officer that was doing my report is all I know.

I just had to share this because it was heavy on my heart as I woke from terrible dreams just now.

 Thank you

Luckily, although really shaken, they both seem ok.

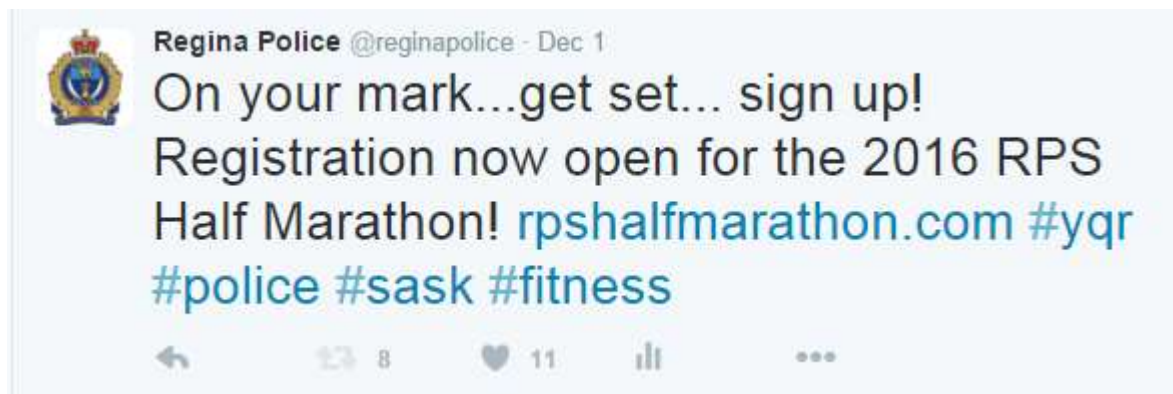

I would like to send a huge thank-you to the 911 operator that answered my call, the RPS members, Fire Fighters and the EMT's that showed up to help. They were awesome to both my daughter & 2 yr old granddaughter and to all of us that we're there.

Thank you all for all your help, it's very much appreciated!

Stay safe!

Check out the positive impact of our School Engagement Officer!
@reginapolice @RegPublicSchool @RCSD_No81

Partnership

Success Story

Alex's Background

- not attending school, nor was he engaging in school when he did attend.
- diagnosed with ADHD, anxiety & depression.
- very withdrawn & anti-social & kept teachers & classmates at bay.
- mumbled when he spoke, looked at no one & mom was actively engaged with TRiP.

What were people trying to do?

- mom spent almost every morning of the remaining school year driving him to school.
- last year school goal was to just get him inside the building.
- April 2014, TRiP began working with Alex.
- as a result of Alex's mom driving him to school daily, he only missed 43 school days last year, though many times he would refuse to get out of the van.
- this year, the school, TRiP staff & mom recognized that Alex was ready to do more than simply show up. Alex started out in September attending 1/2 days, but at times was still refusing to get out of the van.

TRiP helped facilitate:

- at a September TRiP case conference, mom advised TRiP staff that Alex talked constantly about wanting a chameleon. (She noted that he never asks for anything but this keeps coming up).
- it was suggested that TRiP implement a goal reward chart for Alex to earn a chameleon to keep in the classroom & that he would have responsibility for.

Outcome:

- in October, Alex started working towards achieving his final goal (getting a chameleon), while accomplishing smaller milestones along the way.
- he was required to be in the classroom for the morning & to make an effort. The "effort" was to be determined by Alex's teacher by lunch.
- when Cst. Seiferting SEO, first met Alex, he avoided eye contact & mumbled one or two word answers.
- at the point of receiving his 1st milestone reward, Alex had started spending more than the required time in class.
- by month-end, reached his 2nd milestone marker & was rewarded with a trip to a pet store where he got to hold a chameleon & pick out a terrarium & supplies.
- during this pet store visit, Alex was engaging in conversation, making eye contact & spoke with the staff.
- he has participated in a school dance contest & was spending almost full days in the classroom, & producing quality work.
- currently, he is in class for most of the day & despite the odd slow start, he participates in class & interacts with a variety of people.
- if he continues on his projected course, Alex will be getting the chameleon in school in the New Year.

FYI's:

Since September 2015:

- tracking 32 kids from 12 different schools;
- actively working with 9 schools
- working with 13 kids - either in school or through programming
